

Society Chat OF THE Week

THE concert to be given at the Hawaiian Opera House on next Tuesday evening is attracting a great deal of attention, partly on account of the program, which has been selected with a great deal of care, and partly on account of the fact that the local lodge of Elks have taken the concert in charge and are going to donate their share to the Palama Settlement, and thus keep up their reputation for benevolence, which is one of the leading features of the order.

Among the numbers on the program, and standing forth most prominently musically, is the "Inflammatus" from Stabat Mater, in which Mrs. Harrison will be assisted by the full chorus which she has been rehearsing, and which is a most ambitious effort. Two of her solos will have a violin obligato by Mr. W. A. Love, whose work has added so much to the enjoyment of our local concerts. A quartet from the tuneful "Spring Maid" will be a feature, and Mrs. Harrison will sing the "Habenera" from "Carmen." A solo and chorus from "The Pink Lady," an opera that is now being sung in New York after a long run, will be put on with a pretty stage effect. The choruses will be accompanied by Prof. Berger, and Mrs. Harrison's solo work will have Miss Swayne for the accompanist, having played for her before on the mainland. The ladies interested in the Settlement work are lending a helping hand, and the following have kindly consented to act as patronesses:

Mrs. Gerrit Wilder, Mrs. E. A. Mott-Smith, Mrs. F. M. Swayne, Mrs. W. P. Dillingham, Mrs. J. R. Galt, Mrs. Geo. Sherman, Mrs. B. L. Marx, Mrs. Geo. Angus, Mrs. Geo. T. Knecht, Mrs. W. W. Harris, Mrs. Richard Ivers, Mrs. H. G. Noonan, Mrs. C. B. Cooper, Mrs. A. E. Murphy, Mrs. C. Hedemann, Mrs. T. E. Wall, Mrs. E. R. Stackable, Mrs. St. D. G. Walters.

Mrs. Harrison leaves in a few days for the Orient, and it will be a pleasure to hear her in concert work, in which she has been eminently successful. The program is as follows, though there may be some change in the arrangement of the numbers:

Dr. and Mrs. Waterhouse's Dinner.

None of the entertainments that have taken place during the past week was more enjoyable than the bridge dinner that was given Thursday evening by Dr. and Mrs. Ernest Waterhouse. The floral decoration was exceptionally pretty. Yellow chrysanthemums were used exclusively in the decorative scheme. The center of the table was banked with the flowers intermingled with sprays of lace maidenhair fern. Accessories of silver candelabra, shaded with yellow shades, were artistically placed on the table. The guest cards were garlanded with marguerites and tied with yellow satin ribbon. After dinner bridge was enjoyed. On this occasion Mr. and Mrs. Francis Gay were the honored guests. Those present at the delightful dinner were Dr. and Mrs. Ernest Waterhouse, their two guests of honor, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Mills Swayne, Mr. and Mrs. Gerrit Wilder, Mrs. Sturgis of Schofield Barracks and Mr. David Anderson.

Major and Mrs. Timberlake's Dinner.

A profusion of pink roses was used to carry out the decorative scheme at the beautiful dinner that was given Thursday evening by Major and Mrs. Edward Julius Timberlake. A low Italian basket was filled with duchess roses; the base of the basket was completely concealed by amilax, and the handle was ornamented with a bowknot of pale pink muslin. Tall silver Italian candelsticks, adorned with shades designed to represent roses, shed a becoming light over the assembled guests. The half-dozen covers were designed by dinner cards inscribed with the hostess' monogram in gold. The elaborate dinner was given in honor of Major and Mrs. Wooten of Fort De Russy. Later in the evening the company motored to the Moana Hotel, where they enjoyed the service hop. Among the host and hostess' guests were Major and Mrs. Wooten and Captain and Mrs. Game.

Miss Edith Williams' Dinner.

Ten covers will be arranged for the delightful dinner party that is to be given Tuesday evening by Miss Edith Williams. The motif for the entertainment is Miss Ethel Bishop of California, who is visiting in this city.

Miss Swayne's Luncheon.

A society event that is being anticipated for the coming week is the luncheon at which Miss Nora Swayne will preside at her home on College Hills. The guests have been invited for Wednesday.

Captain and Mrs. Johnson's Dinner.

A coterie of young folk accepted the hospitality of Captain and Mrs. John Stuart Johnson, when they entertained at dinner at their cozy quarters at Fort Ruger Thursday evening. Pink roses and amilax made an exquisite decoration for the dining room and dinner table. The dinner favors and place cards were carried out in pink and green. After the elaborate dinner the host, hostess and their guests motored to the Moana Hotel, where they attended the transport hop. Among Captain and Mrs. Johnson's guests were Miss Edith Cowles, Miss Alice Cooper, Lieutenant Price, U. S. A., and Lieutenant Pratt of Fort Ruger.

Neighborhood Card Club.

Miss Blair will entertain the Neighborhood Card Club Thursday afternoon. The meeting can well be numbered as one of the most pleasurable social events for the coming week, especially as Miss Blair is to be the hostess, for her hospitality has always been appreciated when she has entertained on former occasions.

Mrs. Charles Brown's Dinner.

One of the most enjoyable affairs of the week was the dinner given Wednesday evening by Mrs. Charles Brown. Mr. and Mrs. Brown have recently moved into their new bungalow on East Maunaloa road. This new home is considered one of the most artistic residences in the picturesque valley. The dinner given this week was one of the first entertainments given in the new home and was delightful in every way. A half a dozen covers encircled the beautifully appointed table. The place cards were of a design that was in vogue in Europe. The affair was given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Brown's house guest, Miss Hummel of Indianapolis. It was regretted that Mr. Brown was on a business trip, consequently could not be present at the pleasant entertainment. Among those present were Mrs. Charles Brown, her guest of honor, Miss Hummel, Miss Isabelle Kelley, Miss Lewis of Seattle, Wash., Mrs. Church and Miss Ruth Brown.

Mrs. Wildfield and Mrs. Wilbur's Bridge Party.

Mrs. Mary Wildfield and Mrs. Wilbur were hostesses this week at an enjoyable bridge party that was given Thursday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Byron K. Baird of Hilo, Hawaii. Owing to the inclement weather, the entertainment was not given at the quarters of Captain and Mrs. Wilbur at Fort Ruger, but took place at the attractive furnished house that Mrs. Baird has rented on Wilder avenue. The interior of this home was tastefully decorated with palms, potted plants and flowers in shades mauve and pale pink. The prizes, consisting of hand-embroidered Chinese silk bags, were unusually handsome, and were won by Mrs. Montgomery Macomb, Mrs. Helen Noonan, Mrs. Zeno K. Myers and Mrs. Turner of Kamehameha School. There were numerous interesting and closely contested bridge games played that added zest and pleasure to the afternoon's enjoyment. At half after five delicious refreshments were served at small tables. Among the invited guests were Mrs. Montgomery Macomb, Mrs. Wooten, Mrs. Francis Mills Swayne, Mrs. Andrew Fuller, Mrs. Richard Ivers, Mrs. Clifton Carter, Mrs. Coleman of Baltimore, Md., Mrs. Charles Bryant Cooper, Mrs. J. S. Walker, Mrs. George Potter, Mrs. Helen Noonan, Mrs. Kelley and Mrs. Hamilton of California, Mrs. Zeno K. Myers, Mrs. C. B. Wood, Mrs. Neville, Mrs. Arthur Marx, Mrs. Turner, Mrs. Archibald Campbell, Mrs. Gerrit Wilder, Miss Ben Taylor, Mrs. Percy Benson, Mrs. Game, Mrs. M. M. Scott, Mrs. Edwards, Mrs. Myer of California, Mrs. Manille Phillips, Mrs. John Stuart Williams of Fort Ruger and her mother, Mrs. Walker, and others.

Hon. Samuel Parker's Pol Luncheon.

The Hon. Samuel Parker was host at a memorable pol luncheon that was given Sunday in honor of Mr. Harry Lewis and Mr. J. Friedenstern of Sheffield, England. The entertainment was elaborate and beautiful, affording unlimited pleasure for the guests. The repast was served in the old-time native style, in a coquina arbor built at the edge of the sea, in the spacious grounds of the Parker place at Waikiki. The long table was covered with mauve and scarlet carnations. Delicious Hawaiian viands were served by Hawaiian retainers, the maillinis enjoying the novel feast as much as the kamaias. Among the Hon. Samuel Parker's guests were the Prince and Princess Kalamang, the Hon. and Mrs. Robert Shingler, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Widemann, Captain and Mrs. Arthur Marx, Miss Mary Low, Mr. and Mrs. George Beckely, Mr. Harry Lewis, Mr. J. Friedenstern, Mr. and Mrs. Lucas, Mr. Joseph Gilman, Mr. John McGrosson, Captain Johnson of the steamer Wilhelmina and others.

Mrs. McStocker Entertained.

Wednesday Mrs. McStocker entertained informally at a small bridge tea that was given in honor of Mrs. E. C. Brown. There were two tables of bridge. The highest "bridget" was Mrs. R. R. Reidford, who was presented with a handsome fruit and nut receptacle in burnt wood. Among those present were Mrs. F. McStocker, Mrs. E. C. Brown, Mrs. Theodore Lansing, Miss McStocker, Mrs. Henry E. Cooper, Miss Lydia McStocker, Mrs. W. W. North and Mrs. R. R. Reidford.

Mrs. Edwards' Tea.

The home of Captain and Mrs. Edwards, on Keeaumoku street, was the scene of much gaiety Tuesday afternoon, when the latter entertained at a delightful tea between the hours of four and six. The color scheme was yellow and green. The beauty of the decorations was heightened by a profusion of feathery chrysanthemums, potted palms and maidenhair fern. The hostess and her guest of honor, Mrs. Coleman of Baltimore, Md., received on the west veranda. Mrs. Edward Julius Timberlake, Mrs. Clifton Carter, Mrs. Game and Mrs. Daniel Hand assisted in the entertainment of the guests. Mrs. Walter Cowles, wife of Admiral Cowles of the U. S. Navy, and Mrs. Montgomery Macomb, wife of General Macomb of the Army, served coffee and tea in the dining room at a circular table that was handsomely decorated in green and yellow. A large centerpiece of Cluny lace, with smaller dollies to match, covered the highly polished surface of the table. A russet-colored basket, filled with chrysanthemums, occupied the center of the table. Tall brass candelsticks, containing candles that were shaded with yellow shades, ornamented with miniature chrysanthemums, enhanced the attractiveness of the table. The assemblage of pretty women, clad in their fluffy chiffons or embroidered lingerie, with large picture hats or flowered turbans, added smartness to the affair. Among those invited to meet the guest of honor were Mrs. Montgomery Macomb, Mrs. Walter Cowles, Mrs. Edward Davis, Mrs. Edward Julius Timberlake, Mrs. Wooten, Mrs. Charles Bryant Cooper, Mrs. L. Tenney Peck, Mrs. William Hobdy, Mrs. Shepherd, Mrs. Warner, Mrs. Arthur Marx, Mrs. Game, Mrs. Alexander Davis, Mrs. Andrew Fuller, Mrs. Gaylor, Mrs. Kelley and Mrs. Hamilton of California, Mrs. Mary Wildfield, Mrs. Byron K.
